

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND APPLICATION FORM

(Please read carefully before applying)

The California Coalition for Rural Housing (CCRH) is proud to announce its 25th Annual Rural West Internship Program for Diversity in Nonprofit Housing and Community Development (Internship Program). The Program operates in California, Oregon and Washington State.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM'S OBJECTIVES

The CCRH Internship Program is a one-year paid Internship designed to recruit, train, and retain housing development professionals who enhance inclusion and racial equity within the Affordable Housing Development field. CCRH member nonprofit organizations have responded to the need for affordable housing by building, maintaining, and rehabilitating affordable housing complexes in the rural West since the 1960s. This internship is intended to provide an entry into the affordable housing and community development field to historically underrepresented college students from low-income, rural, farmworker, and ethnically diverse communities representative of the growing diverse populations served by these nonprofit housing developers. We strongly encourage applications from recent college graduates or students entering their last year of college so that upon graduating from college, they may be able to be employed in entry-level professional positions in the field. Students from all majors are encouraged to apply.

HOW THE INTERNSHIP WORKS

There are three main entities that make up the program: The Intern, CCRH, and the Host Agency. CCRH is a nonprofit organization that serves as the Program Administrator and coordinator of the program. We are not a public/government agency. CCRH sponsors the program and coordinates all trainings and supplemental program activities. The Host Agency is the location where each Intern carries out his/her day-to-day work. Each year, an average of twelve interns participate working and learning at a nonprofit affordable housing developer or housing authority. Interns are selected via a competitive application process from across each state, and placed with a host agency for one year, beginning work in the summer (full-time) and continuing through the spring (part-time). The intern works closely with a supervisor and follows an Intern Work Plan that provides a well-rounded intern experience in the field of nonprofit affordable housing and community development. Interns and host agencies sign agreements with CCRH to ensure understanding of the program terms and policies, and to ensure an optimal experience for the Intern and the Host Agency. Selected interns are placed at host agencies located within driving distance to the university in which they attend.

During the year, the intern will be actively involved in affordable housing development. The intern will learn hands on what it takes to create affordable healthy living communities, and specifically learn the intricacies of developing and rehabilitating multifamily housing complexes from concept inception to construction completion for low-income and ethnically diverse communities.

On the job learning: Host Agencies will provide opportunities to gain hands on experience in areas such as these:

- Participating and helping facilitate community meetings about proposed developments;
- Assisting with land and property acquisitions;

- Conducting an assessment or needs survey to determine the housing and community development needs of low-income people;
- Participating in planning meetings with the architect and property management on the design of architectural drawings for affordable housing developments and community facilities such as child-care centers and community recreation buildings;
- Assist with the financial applications and loan closings for housing developments;
- Participating in construction meetings and preparing construction draw requests.

In addition, interns will be exposed to different leadership styles via CEO and Executive Director shadowing experiences; and are able to further develop their leadership skills through the program's supplemental activities described below.

PROGRAM ACTIVITIES AND OTHER OPPORTUNITIES

The Intern's Program year will include a variety of professional and personal skills development opportunities. Interns also get to build community with their peer group members and program alumni through various activities and develop strong long-lasting relationships because of the work and activities that occur over the year. Please note that due to the pandemic these activities may be conducted online via Zoom rather than in person. Some of these opportunities include:

Summer Training Institute. Interns begin the program working at their host agencies and then shortly thereafter attend a three-day training kick-off with team building activities at UC Davis. The rest of the intensive summer training takes place online over a period of one month, 2-hour sessions three times a week. The Institute is an intensive training where professionals from the industry teach various affordable housing and community development topics. The Institute also provides personal development tools, such as communication and negotiation techniques that Interns can use in their professional and personal lives. The Institute activities help Interns to get to know each other on a personal level and forge bonding relationships with one another, so that they feel comfortable communicating and confiding via email/social media/phone once they return home to various parts of the West.

CCRH Rural Summit and Statewide Housing Conferences: California Interns can attend and participate in CCRH's renowned Annual Rural Housing Summit, while Washington state and Oregon Interns can attend their respective statewide Annual Housing Conference. These events usually occur between September-October. Interns will prepare and deliver a brief collective intern presentation at the Rural Housing Summit as part of a plenary.

The Mid-Winter Training: In January Interns take a weekend to participate in a skills development/retreat where they reflect on their intern experience and gain additional soft skills and housing & community development tools.

Enrichment Opportunities: Interns are regularly informed of community development events and news via an Intern email communication initiated by CCRH's Program Director and may be invited to attend one statewide or regional housing conference, depending on where the Intern is placed. Some Host Agencies sponsor their respective Intern to other non-CCRH trainings, such as the Neighbor Works America National Training Institute, National Rural Housing Conference, etc., (depending on Host Agency and CCRH partners).

Final Project. Interns culminate the program with the presentation of a housing development project they have worked on during the year where they must convince a mock city council that their development project is feasible and an asset to the community.

Graduation: Successful Intern graduates participate in a special graduation ceremony typically hosted in April preceding the annual Housing California Conference in Sacramento. The graduation is attended by Intern families, CCRH intern alumni, nonprofit leaders and practitioners from across each state.

Resources and Employment Opportunities after Graduation: CCRH staff support initial and ongoing professional opportunities for Interns and program alumni by aggressively promoting the employment of graduating interns. Staff actively connects graduating interns with nonprofits who have jobs available via direct dialogues with its nonprofit network. On a longer-term basis, CCRH keeps a data base of graduating Interns on file and regularly forwards job announcements and resources to the group. CCRH staff often serves as reference for Intern graduates.

INTERNSHIP PROGRAM TERM AND PAY

The term of the program is for one year and the Internship starts as early as June 1, 2022 and ends May 31, 2023. Given the current pandemic we will remain flexible on starting dates with a hybrid model of remote and in-person day-to-day work at the host site. Interns are paid $16.00 per hour. For external CCRH program sponsored trainings, CCRH pays for all intern lodging and meals per CCRH guidelines.

Who Should Apply

Priority is given to full-time students this academic year (2021-2022) enrolled full-time and the following entire academic year (2022-2023) or at the very least the fall term of 2022. Preference is given to recent college graduates and those entering their last year of school, want to pursue a career in the nonprofit housing and community development field, have a solid understanding of basic math calculations, have good writing skills, have Excel (spreadsheet) skills, are from rural, farm-worker, Native American, immigrant or low-income backgrounds, and demonstrate a commitment to improve the quality of life of low-income and rural communities. The program encourages applications from various majors. Access to a vehicle is strongly preferred. See more under each geographic location. Historically underrepresented, bilingual, bicultural students are strongly encouraged to apply. A strong commitment to affordable housing and social justice is a must!
